Executive Summary

My primary goal was to learn more about systematic reviews, and the steps necessary to support and perform the literature search processes required. I also wished to learn about contributions librarians can make to the entire systematic review project as a whole, from conception to publication.

Impact

I plan to share the information I learned at the workshop with my fellow librarians at the healthcare system. We often collaborate on complicated searches and search strategies, and the information from the workshop will enable us to provide more comprehensive literature searches. We will advise interested clinicians that the librarians have additional training in the SR process and that we can assist them in their projects.
